WITH THE AUTOS HOMEWARD BOUND

THERE are thousands of auto parties on the Pacific coast at present. The majority of them followed the Lincoln highway to the Panama-Pacific exposition. They are tarrying for a comprehensive and particularizing view and analysis of the wonderful fair. Many of these will remain until the exposition closes and then they will find that the way is closed for them across the Sierra. It will be necessary for them to take the Midland route, which passes through Tonopah. The majority of the parties will be in southern California anyway.

This town must be prepared to offer cheer and supply entertainment for the returning autoists. This doesn't mean that they are to be presented with gasoline or offered their repairs and hotel accommodations free, but that they must be treated with courtesy and hospitality, given information and shown the sights. There will more machines pass through Tonopah this winter than during the summer just closed. The topography of the Midland trail is such that all eastbound tourists must spend the night here, it being a full day's run to Ely, with no intervening towns.

There is an automobile association in this city. It should be taken from its mummy case, the scarabs shaken out of its winding cloths and put in a revived, working condition, in order that the advantage to accrue from the homing autos may be fully received and ordinarily courteous attention paid in return.

TONOPAH'S ALLURING OUTLOOK

A SPIRIT of optimism that is pleasing to note prevails in Tonopah at present and has for the past several days, ever since, in particular, the North Star picked up the Martha vein on its 900 and the Halifax cut its vein on the 1200 level. These two finds, in virgin ground, were made so far apart that they are absolutely disassociated and evidence that the unexplored ground in the district is just as promising as that which has been opened up.

There is no question now, particularly with the continuance of the Extension ore bodies to the westward, that the ore zone of Tonopah district is about as thoroughly explored as the region in the vicinity of Timbuctoo.

This is the greatest deposit of silver-gold ores in the world. They do not lie in a single chamber, but in a gridironing vein system, the limitations of which are to be found in but a single corner, where the glassy trachyte occurs to shut off mineralization. To the other three directions there lie limitless possibilities, even strong probabilities, almost certainties.

It is little wonder that even with silver off a few fractions of a cent, there is heavier trading in Tonopah, with appreciating prices, than have been recorded in many months, with conditions, both in the ground and on the market, bettering every day.

WHAT WOULD BE GERMANY'S CONDITION?

THE strength of Germany is in her system of tariff protection. When the war broke out the allies figured they could starve her into submission by keeping out supplies from neutral countries. But they now realize after more than a year of the struggle that she is self-supporting. Although surrounded on all sides by enemies, she produces within her borders sufficient food and materials for her wants, and to spare. What would be the condition of Germany today if she had Anglicized her economic policy as Wilson has the policy of the United States and produced only those things which she could produce most cheaply? And yet there are some persons who still give an attentive ear to the theories of John Cobden, and cast their votes for his disciples.

WINGFIELD IS ADDING TO HIS RACING STUD

The first consignment of ten blooded horses from Europe, purchased by M. P. Williams, representing Mr. Wingfield in London, arrived at New York City yesterday and will be shipped direct from that place to the Pleasanton stock farm at Pleasanton, Cal. says the Appeal.

Among the horses which have been purchased are Honeywood and Palestina, the first being a 4-year-old stallion which won the Cambridgeshire and other stakes last year, while the last named is a promising 2-year-old filly which has the credit of winning the only stake race in which she was entered against a field of twenty-three horses. Both of the horses were sired by the world renowned Polyemus, and the other eight of the shipment are selected yearlings with registered pedigrees.

HELPING THE UNFORTUNATE

C. M. Altherton, an Oakland insurance man who is doing business in Nevada, arrived in town by auto this morning bringing with him over 700 pounds of rabbits, the result of a hunting trip about 30 miles north of Reno he and a party of friends were engaged in. He proceeded at once to the Orphans' Home and delivered half of his quarry and the other half was given to the state prison authorities.—Carson Appeal.

ODDIE UNDER THE WEATHER

Former Governor Oddie was an arrival in Carson Saturday evening from an outing trip and immediately on arriving at the Arlington was compelled to take to his bed. Dr. Maclean is attending him and pronounces his case one of nervousness and overwork. A few days' rest will bring him around all right.—Appeal.
